OVERVIEW

Casualty litigation attorney Christopher Kwok focuses his practice on defending individuals and companies involved in general tort litigation matters.

He brings his extensive trial skill to help clients, having tried over 50 jury trials to verdict while working as a prosecutor in California. He is also experienced in handling complex financial fraud matters, having served as a prosecutor in the workers' compensation and healthcare fraud unit in his office for ten years and taught for several years as one of the instructors at the California District Attorneys Association's annual Fraud Symposium.

He enjoys traveling and is honored to have the opportunity to work with several of his former prosecutor colleagues in creating the National Asian Pacific Islander Prosecutors Association.
