OVERVIEW

Gregg J. Lytle has more than 15 years of trial experience in the defense of national long-term healthcare providers. He also has a national practice defending claims of employment discrimination and violations of wage and hour law. He has appeared in numerous federal courts across the country to defend employers, including the successful defense of multiple class actions. Gregg has been included in Oklahoma's Super Lawyers® Rising Star listing since 2010. In 2017, he was added to the Super Lawyers® Rising Star's Medical Malpractice Defense register in Texas.

Gregg's practice focuses on the areas of healthcare, medical malpractice, personal injury, general liability, commercial and business litigation, premises liability, construction defect, employment litigation, and professional malpractice defense. He also represents the interests of insurers in subrogation actions to recover payments related to property damage, automobile accidents, construction, and other claims.

He has extensive experience in the defense of a wide range of medical specialties and related medical issues, emphasized through vigorous defense and defending deposition of treating physicians and experts. He has deposed adverse neurosurgeons, OB/GYN, orthopedic surgeons, general surgeons, nurses, pulmonologists, neurologists, dentists, toxicologists, life care planners, accident reconstructionists and other technical experts, engineers, economists, and others.

Prior to joining the firm, Gregg was Office Managing Partner for the largest minority and women-owned law firm in the country. Previously, he was a named partner with an Oklahoma complex litigation law firm where he focused on all of his current areas of practice, including appeal briefs to the Oklahoma Supreme Court and Tenth Circuit Court of Appeals. He was also previously a partner in Dallas where he was responsible for all aspects of pretrial and trial defense of national long-term healthcare providers and the representation of physicians and nurses before state licensing agencies. He represented a national hospitality company in EEOC matters and litigated employment claims.

He is licensed to practice law in Oklahoma, Texas, and Colorado. He is admitted to practice law in all Oklahoma state and federal courts including the U.S. District Courts for the Northern, Eastern, and Western Districts of Oklahoma; U.S. Court of Appeals, Tenth District; and the U.S. District Court for the Western, Northern, Eastern and Southern Districts of Texas. He has been admitted pro hac vice to numerous other federal courts. He is a member of the Oklahoma Bar Association, Texas Bar Association, and Colorado Bar Association.
