OVERVIEW

Jeremy D. Camacho is Senior Counsel in the Alexandria office of GRSM and is a member of the Commercial Litigation practice group. His practice has a particular focus on government contracting industries, including bid protests at the Government Accountability Office.

Previously, Jeremy represented title insurance companies, developers, landlords, and affordable housing organizations at various stages of real estate litigation. He also handled a variety of civil disputes, including sanctions allegations and suits with common interest communities.

Jeremy received his J.D. from Antonin Scalia Law School at George Mason University, located in nearby Arlington, Virginia. During law school, he published two articles in peer-reviewed journals and followed up with a third article shortly afterward. He received his Bachelor of Arts in English from the University of Virginia.
