OVERVIEW

Kenneth M. Ciardiello is an Associate with the Construction practice group in the Hartford Office at GRSM. His practice focuses on both litigation and transactional matters within the construction industry. He primarily represents general contractors, subcontractors, material suppliers, residential and commercial owners, developers, architects, and engineers in litigation, arbitration, contract negotiation, and contract drafting. Kenneth assists clients both before and after problems arise by drafting agreements to best position clients to avoid disputes, as well as litigating and arbitrating matters to final resolution.

His experience includes litigating, arbitrating, and mediating various matters, drafting a wide range of legal documents, including various briefs, responses, and replies at the trial court level, the Connecticut Appellate Court, and the Connecticut Supreme Court, as well as drafting and negotiating contracts and settlement agreements.

Prior to joining GRSM, Kenneth represented disabled veterans against the Department of Veterans Affairs by litigating federal appeals with a non-profit law firm in Washington, DC.
