OVERVIEW

Kelley Mahoney concentrates her practice on general liability, products liability, toxic tort, and premises liability cases. She has represented a broad range of clients in state and federal court, including manufacturers, distributors, contractors, premise owners, and various businesses.

She is involved in all aspects of litigation, including investigation, discovery and depositions, pleading preparation, trial preparation, trial, and settlement. Kelley has drafted, opposed and successfully argued numerous motions, including motions for summary judgment and summary adjudication, motions to compel, and motions for protective orders, among other motions. She also has extensive trial experience in multi-million-dollar actions and has tried cases to verdict as second chair co-counsel.

Prior to joining GRSM, Kelley defended professionals and professional entities, including attorneys, accountants, law firms, accounting firms, corporate directors and officers, trustees, and fiduciaries in professional liability litigation.
