OVERVIEW

Nico J. Piscopo focuses his practice on construction and toxic tort litigation, representing developers, general contractors, builders, and product manufacturers. He provides strategic counsel in complex condominium construction disputes, including ultra-high-end condominium projects, leveraging his deep understanding of construction law to protect his clients' interests and navigate multi-faceted legal challenges.

With extensive experience handling both jury and non-jury trials, Nico has successfully represented clients in high-stakes litigation, ensuring favorable outcomes through meticulous preparation and strategic advocacy. His practice spans across state lines, working with clients who operate multi-state businesses, offering tailored legal solutions that address jurisdictional complexities and evolving regulatory landscapes.

Nico's commitment to excellence is reflected in his strong negotiation and trial skills, enabling him to resolve disputes efficiently while minimizing risk and exposure for his clients. His attention to detail and comprehensive approach to litigation make him a trusted advisor across the construction and toxic tort industry.

A graduate of the University of Connecticut School of Law, Nico served as the President of the Mock Trial Society, honing his advocacy skills early in his career and also winning mock trial and negotiation competitions while in law school. He is also a former member of the prestigious Oliver Ellsworth Inns of Court, reflecting his dedication to professional excellence and continuous learning in the legal profession.

Nico is admitted to practice in Florida and Connecticut, providing him with the flexibility to serve clients in key markets and contribute to the successful resolution of their legal matter
