From its location near Capitol Square, GRSM's Columbus office is home to litigators and transactional lawyers serving public and private clients across Ohio, the region, and the United States.

GRSM's Columbus litigation team offers breadth and depth on high-stakes matters up to the appellate level, including the Ohio Supreme Court.

We handle complex commercial litigation, energy and eminent domain, class actions insurance coverage, trade secret/non-compete, mass tort, employment, products liability, and professional liability, among other areas of litigation. We also serve as counsel to local start-ups and local businesses in their transactional, intellectual property, real estate development, and corporate formation issues.

Many of our Columbus attorneys are counsel to publicly traded and privately held energy companies, including oil and gas clients, which is a focus of our attorneys in Ohio. We represent midstream energy companies in all aspects of their projects and have served as lead counsel for multibillion-dollar, intrastate and interstate pipeline and infrastructure projects. Our attorneys have been on the cutting edge of the legal issues surrounding the Marcellus and Utica shale development.

We are active in organizations throughout the state. GRSM attorneys are members of the Ohio State Bar, Columbus Bar Association, Ohio Association of Civil Trial Attorneys, Energy Mineral Law Foundation (EMLF), DRI, and other legal and business organizations.
