A key location in our Southern California footprint, our Irvine office is home to a significant bench of litigators, transactional attorneys, and advisors. The office opened more than 20 years ago and has expanded in tandem with the firm's growth and the region's evolution into a desirable destination for living, work, and leisure. Irvine has consistently appeared in polling as one of the safest cities in the US, which has caused substantial growth in Irvine and surrounding communities. Our Orange County office has been servicing the legal needs of this region throughout this period of growth and will continue to do so.

Our attorneys focus on business and commercial litigation, construction, tort and product liability, environmental and toxic tort, securities litigation and regulations, banking and real estate litigation, tax and wealth management, trust and fiduciary litigation, aviation, insurance litigation, Prop 65 advice, and professional liability.

Our clients include many of the individuals and businesses that make Orange County a model of success. These include small and mid-size enterprises and Fortune 500 companies.

Within our local communities, we are active in civic and professional organizations, including the Orange County Women's Lawyer Association, where we are a longtime sponsor of a diversity program for graduates of law schools in Orange County. Our office is also involved in Partnership for Philanthropic Planning (Orange County Chapter), Orangewood Children's Foundation, the Orange County Bar Association, and the Mexican American Bar Association.
