GRSM's lawyers are national leaders in litigation involving product liability, toxic torts including asbestos and talc, employment, food and agricultural law, construction, and more. Our Little Rock team is adept at handling a wide range of legal matters across nearly every discipline throughout the United States, including construction, healthcare, medical malpractice, trucking and transportation, insurance, bankruptcy, restructuring and creditors' rights, commercial and consumer litigation, pharmaceutical and medical device litigation, D&O and shareholder litigation, and consumer protection litigation actions.

The Little Rock office and our national team of lawyers have tried hundreds of high-risk cases across the country, including here in Arkansas. Our national appellate practice group has won significant cases of first impression in state and federal appellate courts in Arkansas and nationwide.

Our downtown Little Rock office is home to attorneys with long-standing ties to Arkansas and the South. Our attorneys provide a deep understanding of local and federal laws applicable to businesses in Arkansas. We serve regional and national clients by leveraging the firm's extensive resources across all 50 states to provide comprehensive legal services.

Our Little Rock attorneys are active members of the Arkansas Bar Association, Pulaski County Bar Association, Arkansas Healthcare Association, DRI, and CLM. We have strong connections to the University of Arkansas School of Law and have served as adjunct faculty members at the University of Central Arkansas Honors College. We are also avid supporters of the Arkansas Razorbacks.
