GRSM attorneys located in Maine's largest city extend our resources into New England and across the Northeast. Our professionals here have long worked in the region and understand the interplay of local measures and customs with federal laws. We represent diverse clients, including Maine local businesses and professionals, as well as Fortune 500 companies with interests in Maine. Notable areas of experience include environmental and toxic tort, class actions, product liability, general liability, employment law, class actions, construction, and professional liability defense.

GRSM attorneys regularly represent clients in Maine's state and federal courts, as well as before administrative agencies.

Our attorneys in Maine support GRSM's 50 state, full-service platform, which includes collaboration with colleagues and clients in the region and nationwide.
