GRSM's presence in the state's capital began more than 20 years ago and is marked by a continuity of leadership that has overseen the office's significant growth. Our attorneys here have comprehensive experience in such areas as healthcare, employment, commercial litigation and transactions, product liability, construction, real estate, professional liability defense, pharmaceutical and medical devices, and environmental and toxic tort law.

Our Sacramento attorneys represent local and national clients, especially employers of workforces in the region and state. We are known for trying employment cases to trial and protecting clients through our trial readiness from the onset.

An additional area of depth is the defense of long-term care (LTC) cases, including elder abuse, neglect, regulatory investigations, and administrative appeals. High-profile catastrophic product liability and professional liability cases are also handled by our lawyers.

GRSM attorneys and professionals in Sacramento contribute to the local legal community and organizations, including the State Bar of California. The Sacramento office is also a vital supporter of diversity initiatives by the firm and is valued for its innovative service to clients.
