Our Seattle office represents national and international business clients, often working closely with GRSM colleagues in our Tri-Cities, Spokane, and Portland offices to offer comprehensive coverage of the Pacific Northwest.

GRSM's sizeable Seattle team handles a wide range of complex litigation and transactional matters. The team has extensive trial and appellate experience in state and federal courts.

Areas of focus include commercial litigation, construction, employment law, ERISA, environmental law, cannabis, defense of asbestos claims, government contracts and public procurement, healthcare, insurance coverage, product liability, professional liability, real estate, renewable energy, and corporate formation.

GRSM's Seattle attorneys represent clients including Fortune 500 companies, government agencies, educational institutions, financial institutions, and law firms.

Other major clientele includes construction companies, architectural and engineering firms, real estate agents and brokers, insurance companies and their insured individuals and entities, owners of private businesses of all sizes, and corporate executives.

Since opening the office in 2008, GRSM's Seattle attorneys have been active members of numerous professional associations and community organizations, including the Washington State Bar Association, King County Bar Association, Washington Women Lawyers, American College of Construction Lawyers, and National Association of Women in Construction – Puget Sound Chapter.
